

Litigation

Overview

We believe there are three distinct features that set apart Munsch Hardt's Litigation practice – our abilities, our rate structure and how we staff cases.

First and foremost, we are a team of intensely focused attorneys who represent clients in the most intricate business disputes throughout the U.S. While going to trial is not our goal, it is a distinct advantage for opposing counsel to know we are willing and able to do so if necessary. Second, our rate structure for complex business disputes is the starting point of efficiency. Third, we begin with the fundamental belief that we want each client to be a client for life. Therefore, our goal is simple – find the most efficient possible solution to each problem.

Equally comfortable in a courtroom or boardroom, or before an arbitration panel, our lawyers bring a wealth of experience and depth of commitment to the following areas:

- Admiralty & Maritime Litigation
- Antitrust
- Appellate
- Arbitration
- Condemnation & Eminent Domain
- Construction Litigation
- Director & Officer Litigation
- Employment Litigation
- Energy Litigation
- Environmental Litigation
- Financial Institution Litigation
- Health Care Litigation
- Insurance Litigation
- Insolvency Litigation
- Intellectual Property Litigation
- Lawyer & Law Firm Litigation
- Personal Injury & Wrongful Death
- Products Liability
- Real Estate Litigation
- Tax Controversy
- TCPA
- Trade Secrets
- Warranty

Why We're Different

When you hire a Munsch Hardt attorney, you hire a seasoned trial attorney who will personally manage every pivotal component of your case – from assembling the ideal team, developing strategy, navigating discovery and securing the right expert witnesses to conducting important depositions, arguing motions and more. And, when the trial date arrives, our attorneys will be fully prepared to put on your best case. Our hands on approach and willingness to try cases makes us comfortable in nearly every Texas courthouse.

Experience

Energy Representation

Represented a client in an action to recover enhanced attorneys' fees to remedy the United States' inappropriate attempt to enforce the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA). Munsch Hardt's client was the target of a Department of Labor (DOL) investigation and eventual civil enforcement action, wherein the DOL alleged the client mischaracterized workers under the FLSA. The DOL initially sought civil penalties against the client, which were roughly equivalent to the client's entire net worth. A team of Munsch Hardt attorneys obtained summary judgment dismissal of the DOL's enforcement action, then sought to recover attorneys' fees under provisions of the Equal Access to Justice Act. The district court awarded fees under a provision that caps recoverable fees, but declined to award fees under a provision reserved for situations in which the United States acts in "bad faith." The United States appealed the fee award made against it, and Munsch Hardt cross-appealed on behalf of the client requesting the appellate court rule the more punitive bad faith provision had been triggered. The court agreed and ruled the United States indeed had conducted the investigation and enforcement action in bad faith, reversing the lower court.

Manufacturing Representation

Obtained an appellate ruling in favor of a mobile phone manufacturer, against allegations the client's technology led to the death of a 9-1-1 caller. A team of Munsch Hardt attorneys obtained a Rule 12(b)(6) dismissal of the underlying claims before a district court, because the plaintiffs could not establish a causal link between the operation of the mobile phone and the caller's death. The litigation team established on the face of the pleadings, it was evident emergency responders could have reached the 9-1-1 caller in time to assist if they timely had used information relayed by a 9-1-1 dispatcher. Munsch Hardt briefed and presented oral argument in the subsequent appeal, where the court affirmed the lack of a causal relationship to the 9-1-1 caller's death and further ruled mobile phone manufacturers, as well as data service providers, are beneficiaries of a Texas "immunity" statute that applies to equipment or services used for 9-1-1 calls.

Trustee Litigation

Representing a trustee in litigation against the former brokers and officers and directors of a failed life settlement company that was engaged in a massive fraud selling fractional interests in life insurance policies.

Telecommunications Representation

Defended one of the largest mobile communications companies in the world in a warranty class action involving more than three million products.

Equal Employment Opportunity

Represented two large owner/operators of fitness clubs in connection with claims of race discrimination and retaliation by a former employee. Guided clients through the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission charge process, then defended clients in a lawsuit filed by the former employee. Obtained a quick dismissal for one client and a favorable settlement for the other client after filing a motion for summary judgment based on a complex statute of limitations argument.

Financial Institution Representation

Defense of a financial institution for lending practices resulting from the alleged misuse of collateral owned by a third party and claims for damages of $1.5 MM resulting in a summary judgment that the plaintiff take nothing.

Manufacturer Representation

Successfully defended a leading manufacturer of personnel lifts in a products liability case in which, after a three week jury trial, the general contractor for the Baylor football stadium was charged with negligence and ordered to pay $17 MM in a death case while our client, the lift manufacturer, was exonerated.
